SERIES 2: RECORDS OF THE EXECUTIVE AND SUB-EXECUTIVE. -- 1925-2018. -- 1.64 m of textual records.

The Executive of the General Council must study, promote and protect the general interest of the church. It is responsible for reviewing the agenda and the proposals for General Council; making recommendations to the General Council; consulting with the church and then referring to the General Council any denomination-shaping or faith-shaping issues that arises for the Executive; reporting its actions to the General Council; dealing with matters referred to it by the General Council; ensuring that the decisions and recommendations of the General Council are carried out, or explaining why there were not; calling special meetings of the General Council; overseeing remits and approving changes to The Manual.

Series consists of minutes of the Executive and Sub-Executive of General Council, 1925-2003, 2006-2018 and workbooks, correspondence and other records, 1984-2001.

A copy of official minutes, 1925-1984, is also available on microfilm. The official minutes include an index to each volume. Microfilm copy is unverified and may not correspond to the original material in its present state.

Beginning July 19, 1999, all users will be asked to complete FORM 26 before receiving access to these records.

SERIES 2/Subseries 1: Minutes. – 1925-2018.

With the exception of the period 1982-1984, they appear to be complete runs. Researchers will notice that the minutes have received one of two designations, either 'official' or 'copies'. Those marked 'official' are the official, signed minutes of meetings. These are complete for the periods 1925-1958, and 1984-1990. Those minutes marked 'copies', which cover the period 1958-1984, are copies of the official minutes, which are, as near as can be determined, complete and exact copies of the official minutes. Researchers will further notice that the 'copies' of minutes for the years 1962 through 1974 have two sets of each volume. For the most part these are duplicates, but further investigation will reveal that documents found in one set will not always be found in the second set. Therefore, researchers hoping to view the complete record will want to examine both sets of the copy minutes.

A full set of microfilmed official minutes for the period 1925-1984 (June 15), is also available to researchers. Due to the fragility of the binding of the 'hard' copy of the official minutes, no photo-duplication of them will be permitted. Researchers will be permitted to photoduplicate the microfilmed minutes, however, and they are therefore encouraged to use these microfilms where available. The advantage of the microfilmed official minutes is that they are fully indexed at the beginning of each volume.

SERIES 2/Subseries 3: Correspondence. -- 1925-1983.

This collection incorporates the extant correspondence and related documents of the General Council's executive and sub-executive for the period 1925 to 1983. The materials consist of correspondence to and from the executive, reports, minutes, petitions and legal judgements, all relative to the work of the General Council's executive bodies and officers. A chronological order has been maintained throughout.

The collection covers a wide variety of topics and is not easily described except in the most general sense. The majority of the material however, relates to the work of the Secretary of General Council and the concerns of the executive responsibilities of the Church. The collection is involved with the sale of properties, financial matters, the educational, legal, jurisdictional and theological concerns of the clergy and membership. The post-war period is especially involved with church extension and consolidation and the ecumenical links of the United Church.

In studying this finding aid, while great detail is suggested, in fact, many documents are not noted. For instance, appointments and resignations, routine acknowledgements, licensing of laity, commendations, local and non-property information are generally omitted. For this reason, the descriptive paragraphs are simply guides to the holdings. Furthermore, a single designation such as "re Albert College" may encompass a number of documents scattered chronologically through a file. Important topics may also extend over several files and even several years. Hence, each document in each file should be examined to determine the real and full extent of the information available on any given topic.

Remember, this finding aid is only a guide, not a comprehensive catalogue of the documentation. This collection should also be used in conjunction with other General Council series and with the related information found in the Papers of the Church's boards and departments.

SERIES 8: RECORDS OF THE GENERAL COUNCIL RESEARCH OFFICE. --1962-1991. -- 1.63 m of textual records; --7 photographs.

The Research Office grew out of a need for coordination of research activity in the General Council Office, and was instituted, along with the Department of Planning Assistance, in 1968. The Research Officer was to define the data collected for the annual Year Book, develop bibliographies for issues currently before the Church, evaluate and interpret outside research publications for their use in the Church, and carry out research projects. The Research Office was renamed the Statistics and Information Office in 1984, and transferred to the Division of Communication, as part of the Information Services Unit of the Department of Finance and Administration, in 1985.

Beginning July 19, 1999, all users will be asked to complete FORM 26 before receiving access to these records

See also Division of Communication fonds (515/6) for continuing records of this Office.

Administrative history taken from the minutes of the General Council Executive November 7, 1968.

SERIES 10: RECORDS RELATING TO ADMINISTRATIVE AND SOCIAL COMMITTEES. -- 1961-1984. -- 1 m of textual records; 2 photographs.

These committees served both administrative and social functions. The General Council Secretaries, the Group of Eight, and Senior Secretaries all describe basically the same group of decision makers at different times. The Group of Eight was seen as the senior management committee of the Church, comprising the General Council and Division Secretaries, with responsibility for channeling policies and priorities through the Church, monitoring operations and ensuring accountability of the Divisions, and acting as a body to recommend to General Council the assignment of particular responsibilities. Officers of Church House (OUCH) was a body called together by the Moderator, consisting of all officers appointed by General Council, and was largely a consultative body that attempted to provide cooperation in the conduct of their several responsibilities, and in understanding the overall mission of the Church. The Group of Twenty was comprised of the General Council Secretariat, the Division Secretaries, and the Conference Executive Secretaries; its task was primarily to monitor the accountability of Conferences and General Council to the Church's policies and priorities. Club 85, originally the Gift and Flower Club, was organized by women working in Church House, primarily as a benevolent organization that became a social and support group. It was disbanded in 1981.

Series consists of minutes, correspondence, and reports of the following bodies: General Council Secretaries (including records of the Group of Eight), 1978-1983; Group of Twenty, 1976-1984; Senior Secretaries, 1969-1980; Administrative Officers, 1975-1990; Officers of Church House (OUCH), 1961-1972; and Club 85, 1961-1980; files re a committee on smoking in the work place. Includes two photographs of retirement teas.

General Council – Introduction

General Council is the paramount jurisdiction in the United Church. Its powers encompass administrative, financial, legislative and theological activities. Established at the time of Union (1925), the scope of the General Council's powers was laid out in the MANUAL OF THE UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA. CONSTITUTION AND GOVERNMENT, 1926. Under the authority of section 121 of the Manual, General Council has the power to define the number and boundaries of Conferences, legislate on doctrine, worship and membership of the Church as well as its government. It has the power to legislate in matters of property, to prescribe the course of study for ministerial candidates, to receive and dispose of petitions, memorials, and appeals, to determine the missionary policy of the church, and to appoint committees, boards, and offices for the several departments of the Church.

In the intervening sixty-five years since the Manual was adopted little has been altered in the powers of the General Council. As an elected body representing the whole Church membership it meets every two years. The operation of its powers in the intervening period is invested in an Executive Committee appointed by the General Council. The role of the Executive is broadly interpreted in the Manual:

It shall give special attention to the promotion and protection of the general interests of the Church, and to the promotion and carrying out, as far as possible, of the recommendations of the General Council...

Where the General Council has power to do any act or thing and has failed to exercise such power it may be exercised by the Executive. (Manual s.127)

The Executive also has the power to appoint a sub-Executive to exercise its powers between meetings. Within the sub-Executive it is the Secretary who has the administrative authority, and is thus the primary creator of records in the General Council Office. "The primary duty of the General Secretary of the General Council is to be the chief staff and administrative officer of the General Council, its Executive and sub-Executive." (Manual 1987, s.507).

This paper authority of the Secretary was enhanced in the early years of the Church's history by the long service of its first three occupants: T. Albert Moore (served 1925-1937), Gordon A. Sisco (1938-1954), and Ernest E. Long (1954-1971). Other Secretaries represented in the collection are George E. Morrison (1972-1973), Donald G. Ray (1974-1982) and Phillip A. Cline (1983-1985).
